Ray and Bee

Thanks for talking to me last evening. It was great. Also the email message and information.

Below is what I project are our ancestors of Lydia Wardell who was the wife of William Biddle II.

I show the internet sources that I base this projection. I know one must do a lot more research to make sure this is correct. It is still a starting point.

I may be sending more information.

Blessings,

Owen Picton

Ancestors of Lydia WARDELL - 3 May 1999

FIRST GENERATION

1. Lydia WARDELL was born about 1671 in Shrewsbury, Monmouth Co., NJ. She died in Township, Mansfield, Burlington Co, NJ. Our ancestor Lydia Wardell who was the wife of William Biddle II had her uncle Samuel (Werdall) Wardwell hung at Salem for witch craft on Sept 22, 1692. Go to:
<http://www.salemweb.com/memorial/default.htm>
for a Salem Witch Trials Chronology.

A genealogy line for Lydia Wardell's ancestors was found on the "The Family Tree Maker" file #0695 and it is similar to another more incomplete ancestor line I have for her. Some other sources have shown Lydia as Eliakim Wardell's granddaughter instead of daughter. Either way both sources show Lydia Wardell descendant from Eliakim Wardell. Another slightly different partial listing of some of Lydia Wardell's ancestors is by finding her uncle Samuel Wardwell with internet address:
<http://www.familytreemaker.com/users/c/a/r/David-J-Carter/GENE1-0010.html>

Some experts report that thru Lydia Wardell we are distant cousins to Presidents Fillmore, Coolidge, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Nixon. Our common ancestor was a Thomas Perkyns. This was reported at:
<http://www.hampton.lib.nh.us/genealog/persons.html> Then lookup Issac Perkins Jr. in the list of surnames. When you find Issac Perkins Jr. look at the index under him.

[2914] Isaac was reportedly a 9th and 10th generation ancestor of President Nixon. The very reliable Gary Boyd Roberts, of N.E.H.G.S., reports that the descendancy occurs through grandson, John HUSSEY, Jr. However, Noyes/Libby/ Davis, in their "Genealogical Dictionary of Maine and New Hampshire" (1939) reports (at pg. 364) that there were TWO John, Juniors, and that the SECOND one died before the age of 1 month. If the first Junior was still living (he would have then been 8 years old) and went on to adulthood to marry and raise a family, then how is it that a subsequent son was also named John? Scenario #1: Roberts (or his source) is in error. Scenario #2: GDMNH is in error. John, Jr., #1 died young, and John, Jr., #2 was the survivor who married and raised a family. Scenario #3: Roberts is right, and there's no explaining the choices of some parents when it comes to naming their children. In the new book, "Schwartztrauber, Stewart and Related Families," (1995), at pgs. 601 and 609, Admiral S. Archie Schwartztrauber reports the same Perkins-Nixon connection, showing the descendancy through John HUSSEY, Jr., #1. He attributes correspondence with David C. Dearborn of N.E.H.G.S. for his authority. Mr. Roberts also informs us that Isaac's grandfather, Thomas, was a common ancestor of Presidents Fillmore, Coolidge, and Franklin D. Roosevelt, through Isaac's uncle Henry. Roberts, Gary Boyd, "Ancestors of American Presidents," (1995, N.E.H.G.S. & Boyer), pgs. 147-48, 167, 159-60, 161-62, and 241 (chart).

[4213] Dow reports that tradition, unverifiable though it may be, indicates that Abraham and Isaac were brothers. They arrived in Hampton at or about the same time. The lots assigned to them were adjacent to one another. GDMNH, without adding more detail, declares them to be brothers. Additional sources: Noyes/Libby/Davis, "Genealogical Dictionary of Maine and New Hampshire," (1939), pg. 541; Roberts, Gary Boyd, "Ancestors of American Presidents," (1995, N.E.H.G.S. & Boyer), pgs. 167 and 241 (chart), for identity of this Isaac who was "of Ipswich," Essex, Mass. in 1639).

Porrmont and Wardwell had been dismissed from their church relation at their own request and they were advised to desist from further disturbance of the place by asserting their pretended church relation.* Wardwell was in court October 25, 1653, for casting aspersions on the magistrates of Massachusetts Bay. Stating that "it was not an ordinance of God," Wardwell refused to subscribe towards the college (Harvard) in 1654.

Having "submitted" in a far from courageous manner, Wardwell returned to Boston, where on December 5, 1657, he married Elizabeth (Crow) (Perry) Gillett, widow of Arthur Perry and of John Gillett. On the day before their wedding they entered into a contract that such estate as she was in possession of before marriage should be at her disposing, the witnesses being Seth Perry and John Perry. Wardwell engaged to bring up Hannah Gillett, daughter of John Gillett and Elizabeth, then about two years old, and to give her £16 on the day of her marriage or the day of his death, in exchange for the Gillett house, then "much decayed & ready to fall," to which Hannah would have in due course succeeded. On November 3, 1663, the court "allowed this covenant," but granted £21 to Hannah and the land to Wardwell and his heirs.† The house stood on the corner of Hanover and Cross streets.

Boston granted Wardwell permission "to draw beere" on April 29, 1661, and after his death widow Wardwell was licensed on April 25, 1670. Her license was renewed year after year, the privilege of selling "strong liquor" out of doors being added in 1691 when her daughter Deborah Mann shared the business with her. Wardwell died between April 18 and April 25, 1670. "Mis Wardel an antiant wido" died in Boston on February 12, 1697.

The will of William Wardell of Boston left to his wife Elizabeth one half of his dwelling-house for life, and all the movables therein except a bed and other furniture to the value of £20 which he bequeathed to his daughter Rachel Wardell. Also from the furnishings his wife's daughter Hannah Gillett was to have articles to the value of £20. Also out of the household stuff, £20 to his wife's daughter Deborah. To his son Uzal Wardell, the other half of the dwelling house, and after the death of the widow Elizabeth Wardell, Uzal was to have the whole house, he WILLIAM WARDWELL must have come to New England in his boyhood as an apprentice of Mr. Edmund Quincy as he was admitted to the church in Boston, described as Mr. Quincy's servant, on February 9, 1633/4. On February 20, 1636, Boston granted him two acres at Mount Wollaston "only for his present planting" and on February 19, 1637, a "great lot" at the same place. By 1636 he had married Alice ———. Thomas Wardwell, who was admitted to the Boston church November 9, 1634, is reasonably supposed to have been William's brother. Both of the Wardwells were followers of Mrs. Hutchinson in the famous Antinomian controversy which rent the church asunder. They were disarmed in 1637 and went to Exeter with Rev. John Wheelwright, being dismissed to the Exeter church on January 6, 1638/9. They were signers of the Exeter combination, an agreement for self government, on June 5, 1639, and both had grants of land. When the long arm of Massachusetts overtook them at Exeter, William Wardwell and his wife and family again joined their minister Wheelwright in his search for a new home and settled with him at Wells.

In Wells Wardwell kept a tavern, undoubtedly combining this business with farming. His licenses to sell at retail survive in the records of the courts of October, 1649, and March, 1656/7. In 1653 Massachusetts, taking over the Gorges Province of Maine, caught up with the Wheelwright fugitives, and on July 4 commissioners arrived in Wells to take the submission of the inhabitants. "And whilst the names of the Inhabitants of Wells were Calling Wm Wardwell . . . was Called to come in & Ansr to his name which he Refused & Contemptuously turned his backe on the Court." They issued a warrant to the Constable and adjourned the court to Mr. Ezekiel Knight's where the constable brought Wardwell, the rest of the inhabitants accompanying him. He was dismissed upon his hardly credible excuse that "his Intent was not to Contem the Court but Rather to endeavor to gett the Rest of the Inhabitants of Wells that had not Appeared to Come in & make theire Appearances." The inhabitants all submitted the next day, July 5, 1653, and they were given the freeman's oath. The court found that Mr.

paying to his brother Elihu Wardell £40 in silver or its equivalent. To his daughters Leah, wife of William Tower, Meribah, wife of Francis Littlefield, and Mary, wife of Nathaniel Rust, 10s. in silver apiece, to be paid by Uzal Wardell. Residue to son Uzal. Overseers: friends James Everill, William Bartholomew. The will was not dated, but witnesses Ambros Dawes, Joseph Wheeler, William Bartholomew and James Everill testified that he signed it April 18, 1670. It was entered June 4, 1670. The inventory dated April 30, 1670, lists property worth £382, less debts of £164, including funeral charges of £4. The furniture in the hall, hall chamber, parlor, parlor chamber, kitchen and cellar was worth £66. He had on hand 330 bushels of malt, 4 lbs. of hops and 5 full hogsheds of beer.*

Children, recorded in Boston:

- i. MENHAM, b. May 14, 1637; m. Francis Littlefield. (See Littlefield.)
- ii. UZAL, b. April 7, 1639; m. (1) in Ipswich May 3, 1664, widow Mary (Kinsman) Ring; m. (2) Grace —, who d. in Bristol, R. I., May 9, 1741, "Old Mrs. Grace Wardell"; he d. in Bristol Oct. 25, 1732, aged 93. Like his father before him, Uzal Wardell, a carpenter, was of an unsettled disposition. After his first marriage he lived in Ipswich until about 1675 when he moved to Salem where he was the town's constable in 1681, and where he was taxed in 1683. By the summer of 1684 he had moved his family to Bristol, R. I., where he remained for the rest of his life. In Ipswich he was on the trial jury in the courts of September, 1677, and November, 1680. He took the Oath of Allegiance in 1678. He was the constable of Bristol in 1691. In King Philip's war he saw much service, being a trooper in Capt. Paige's company in the Mt. Hope campaign and a sergeant in Major Appleton's company in the winter expedition to the Narragansett country.

The will of Uzal Wardell of Bristol, proved in 1732, mentions his wife Grace, his daughters Mary Barker, Sarah Bosworth, Abigail Green, Hannah Crompton, Grace Giddings, Alice Gladding and sons Uzal, James, Joseph, William and Benjamin.

Children, by first wife:

iv. Elihu, b. Nov. 1642, possibly the same child as Elihu above; m. in Ipswich May 26, 1665, Elizabeth Wade. With Ezekiel Woodward he supplied shingles for the Ipswich meeting-house in 1668 at 19s. a thousand, and laid them at 7s. 6d. a thousand. He had liberty to fell trees to fence his homestead in 1668. With about a dozen other men he was in court on May 1, 1672, for shooting pistols and creating other disturbance in the house of Quartermaster Perkins in the evening after training day. In 1674 he built a fulling-mill for Edward Lumacks. He served in King Philip's war under Capt. Nicholas Manning. He took the Oath of Allegiance in Ipswich in 1678. Mr. Wardwell was allotted the second pew on the east side of the pulpit in Ipswich meeting-house for his wife and family and had liberty to sit in the sixth of the men's long seats in 1699, in which year he subscribed 10s. toward the church bell. In 1699 his father-in-law, Col. Jonathan Wade, left him £200 to be laid out in a house and land for the benefit of his wife Elizabeth. He bought Wade land from his brothers-in-law and built a house, deeding a small lot to his grandson, Samuel Dutch, in 1716.*

Elihu Wardwell made his will March 31, 1708, while ill, but he recovered and the document was not proved until January 6, 1716. He left his entire estate to his wife for her life. After her death the real estate was to be divided between his sons Elihu and Jonathan. His wife was to dispose of his personal estate to the children according to her discretion. If either Elihu or Jonathan should die before their mother, his share of the housing and lands was to go to a third son, Nathan, and, if Nathan should die before his mother, "to ye next male heirs in the name of Wardwell yt is nearest of kin." Executrix: wife Elizabeth. "I would be understood yt at this Time I have all my Children in remembrance. . . . The Circumstances of my Estate & family not enabling of mee to make a Distribution among them att this Time." Witnesses: John Pottar, Joseph Fowler, Willm ffolowes, Mrs. Elizabeth Wardwell renounced the trust, and administration, cum testamento annexo was granted to Elihu and Jonathan Wardwell Dec. 26, 1717.†

Of the nine children listed below, there are birth or death records of six in Ipswich. Nathaniel is the Nathan of the will, and Mary and Margaret are "probable."

1. Elizabeth, b. Dec. 15, 1660; m. in Ipswich Sept. 11, 1691, Jacob Rowell.
2. Elihu, b. Jan. 2, 1668.
3. Prudence, b. Oct. 6, 1670; m., int. Dec. 19, 1702, Samuel Dutch.

PERSECUTION OF QUAKERS.

Edward Wharton was one of the most zealous Quakers of his time, and lived at Salem, Mass. In 1669 he gave an order to John Hance to hold and enjoy his lot of land.

George Wharton and John Harwood, of London, appointed John Hance, of Shrewsbury, as their attorney.

Edward Wharton was a noted man in the history of the Society of Friends. He was in Salem as early as 1655 and was called "glazier." His business or "outward occasions," as Bishop's "New England Judged" terms it, required him to make frequent journeys to Rhode Island and other places, and he frequently accompanied Quaker preachers on their visits to various places, sometimes as far as Long Island. He first began to suffer for his faith in 1658. In 1659 he was given twenty-four lashes and fined £20, which a friend paid, as he would not pay it. In 1661 the stripes were again given to him and to John Chamberlain, supposed ancestor of the first Chamberlains of Monmouth, for protesting against the brutal hanging of William Leddra, who was hanged on Boston Common for preaching his faith. It is not stated that Chamberlain was then a Quaker, but his feelings of humanity prompted him to protest against the act. Wharton, despite all threats, remained with Leddra until he was executed. In 1662 he accompanied two Quaker women, preachers, named Alice Ambrose and Mary Tomkins, to Long Island. Here the Dutch authorities arrested all three of them, and also John Tilton and Mary, his wife, William Reape, of Newport, who was with them, and others, and kept them prisoners for ten days, and then put them all, except John Tilton and wife, on a ship and sent them out of their jurisdiction.

In 1664 Alice Ambrose and Mary Tomkins came to Boston from Virginia, where they had been pilloried and then "given thirty-two stripes with a whip of nine cords and every cord three knots."

Mary Tomkins, while in Boston, was taken so sick she thought she would die. Edward Wharton and another Quaker named Wenlock Christian, went from Salem to see her. The constables took her to jail and both women and the two men were ordered to be whipped. Colonel Temple interceded and got three clear, but they vented their wrath on Edward Wharton against whom they had no charge but that of leaving his home in Salem and coming to Boston to see a sick friend. Gov. Endicott issued his warrant to have Wharton given thirty stripes on his naked body, "convicted of being a vagabond from his own dwelling place." This warrant was dated June 30, 1664. Wharton was taken to the market place and stripped, and his arms bound to the wheels of a cannon. Constable John Lowell bade the hangman to whip, which was so cruelly done that it was testified that peas might be put in the holes made by the knots in the whip, on his flesh, arms and back. Wharton was not cowed by his cruel treatment, but after it was over he said, "I think I shall be here to-morrow, again!" He was well off and next day he said to Lieut. Governor Bellingham: "How is it that I should be a vagabond yesterday and not to-day?" Wharton had been in this country some twenty years and had supplied Governor Endicott with necessities of life when he was in humble and suffering circumstances. A lengthy letter is given in Bishop's "New England Judged," complaining of Gov. Endicott's ingratitude and of his injustice. This letter was written by John Smith, possibly the one subsequently in Monmouth, whose wife Margaret had been imprisoned all winter by Endicott's orders. Smith upbraided him for his "hard heartedness to neighbors to whom thou hadst formerly been beholden to and helped in a time of want when thou hadst no bread!" Wharton was punished at other times, but the foregoing statements are sufficient to show why he aided in establishing the settlement in Monmouth where religious toleration should be insured.

The persistence of Wharton in travelling with Quaker preachers, visiting them in prison and aiding them in every way to the best of his ability, despite stripes and imprisonment, show an unselfish heroism rarely witnessed. He was highly esteemed by his Puritan neighbors for everything except his Quakerism.

Eliakim Wardell, who was first named in Monmouth, was a son of Thomas Wardell, who came to this country and was made a freeman at Boston, 1634. He had four sons. The father was disarmed in 1637, for being an Antinomian, as the followers of Ann Hutchinson were called. Some years later, when the Quakers began preaching their views, Eliakim harbored one of them named Wenlock Christison, for which the Court in 1659 fined him, and, as Wardell would not pay the fine, the officer levied "on a pretty beast for the saddle (says "Bishop's New England Judged") worth £14, which was taken for the fine, which was less than the value of the horse, the overplus, to make up to him, some of the officers plundered old William Marston of a vessel of green ginger, which for some fine was taken from him and forced it into Eliakim's house, where he let it be and touched it not. In process of time Eliakim came to be fined again, and whereas, according to law, he should have the overplus of the beast restored to him, yet the executors came and took the ginger away as aforesaid, which was all the satisfaction that was made to him. And notwithstanding, he came not to your invented worship, but was fined ten shillings for his absence and his wife's, yet he was often rated for priest's hire. And the priest, Seaborn Cotton (old John Cotton's son), to obtain his end, sold his rate to a man almost as bad as himself, who is named Nathaniel Boulton, who came on pretence of borrowing a little corn for himself, which the harmless, honest man, willingly lent him. And he, finding thereby that he had the corn, which was his design, Judas-like, he went and bought the rate of the priest and came and measured as he pleased. Another time he had a heifer taken from him for priest's rates, and then almost all his marsh and meadow ground taken from him, which was to keep his cattle in winter."

E. W. & L. W. - are parents of my 7th gr. g m

Eliakim Wardell was at one time sentenced to be whipped with fifteen lashes at the cart's tail, for alleged disrespectful remarks of Simon Bradstreet, which remarks he made because Bradstreet had spoken disrespectfully of his (Wardell's) wife. His wife's name previous to her marriage was Lydia Perkins. In 1662 Wardell and a man named William Foubish witnessed the whipping of two Quaker women named Mary Tompkins and Alice Ambrose, at Newburyport, and for protesting against the punishment, both men were put in stocks. His wife Lydia had been a member of the church, but when the Quakers promulgated their doctrines she joined them. She was also a victim of the lash of the Puritans.

Eliakim Wardell and wife Lydia, at this time lived at "Hampton, fourteen miles from Dover." There is but little doubt that Wardell and wife, and Edward Wharton of Salem, and James Heard, all Quakers, were induced to aid in the settlement of Monmouth by the energetic Quaker merchant of Newport, William Reape, whose business led him to various places.

TALES OF FOREST AND SEA.

The extensive forests in Ocean county have been witness of many exciting scenes occasioned by fires in the woods, children lost, etc. Fires in the woods have been too numerous to attempt to particularize. Often hundreds of acres are swept over and tens of thousands of dollars worth of timber are burned in a short time. With a high wind, the roar of the fire in the woods, the appearance of the sky, etc., are appalling. "Fighting fire" is familiar to hundreds of citizens of Ocean county. Occasionally life is thus lost as in the following instance:

About fifty years ago, many persons were fighting fire near Forked River. A sudden shift of wind brought the flames with such speed down upon the men that they had to run for their lives to a mill pond not far off; but one man named Collins missed the road to the pond and was

of my surnames, links,
and services.

Some of the main surnames I am researching are:

Birdsell, Campbell, Carlton, Emigh, Ogden, Mulford, Herron, Wilkerson, and many more. My mother was raised in Wyoming and South Dakota and my father was raised in Illinois. My mother's people were movers

and pioneers on that big quest for land and opportunities.

She

spent about 35 years doing research on her side. My father's people settled in three counties in Illinois, Scott, Greene, and Morgan, in the early 1800s and they stayed there for generations.

Before coming to Illinois, most of them came from Tennessee and North Carolina.

I am at a point now with both my mother's side and my father's side, that my research is centering in New England, with most of the families being in New Jersey and Pennsylvania. One of my ancestors on my mom's side, Martin Brobst, administered the citizenship oath to one of my ancestors on my father's side, George Hoppes.
Little did they know that 200 years later, their families would be united. It seems amazing because one side took the high road, through Ohio and Indiana, while the other side took the low road, through North Carolina and Tennessee.

Take a few minutes to check out the surnames I am researching and if you find any connections, please contact me at my with you.

The names of persons summoned and indicted for pulling down Richard Michells fence.

William Meaker, Jeffery Jones, Luke Wattson, Nicholas Carter, Samuel Mash Sen^r, John Ogden Jun^r, Joseph Meaker, Hurr Tompson.

Feb. 28, 1671.

The Court adjourned their sitting to the eight day of March following, and all persons by proclamation then to appear by virtue of their former summonns.

March 8, 1671.

The Court being satt, proclamation made. Oyes &c all manner of persons &c. The Commissioners present that day Cap^t John Berry President, Mr Samuel Edsall Mr Robert Bond (Mr Robert Treat was absent) Cap^t John Pyke, Mr William Pardon.

The jury personally appeared and answered to their names and the persons indicted viz: W^m Meaker, Jeffery Jones, Luke Wattson, Nicholas Carter, Samuel Mash Sen^r John Ogden Jun^r Joseph Meaker, Hurr Tompson.

The indictment was read as followeth, WILLIAM MEAKER You are here indicted in the behalf of our sovereign Lord the King Charles the Second, by the name of William Meaker for that you not having regard unto nor observance of his said Majestys laws, did upon the twentieth day of June last past with severall other persons not less regarding the violation of the good and wholesome laws of our Sovereigne Lord the King, by name Jeffery Jones, Luke Wattson, Nicholas Carter, Samuel Mash Sr. John Ogden Jun^r Joseph Meaker, Hurr Tompson, all of the town & province abovesaid, unlawfully assemble together in a Rout and Riotusly did intend, go about. practice & put in use, to overthrow, cut breake, cast down or diggs up, a considerable quantity of fence belonging to Richard Michell, with intent that the land lying at the rear of the house lot of Francis Barber and George Pack & others, then in the possession and occupation of the abovenamed Richard Michell, should remain open, all which is contrary to the law, and a breach of the King's peace.

What say you to this charge? Are you guilty or not guilty?

The persons above named indicted appeared in Court, and the indictment read to them, departed without entering their plea though commanded to attend the Court: And Mr Samuel Moore Attorney in the Kings behalfe made his plea and evidences taken in court.

The plaintiff for plea saith.

First. That none shall enter into any lands in the possession of another person, but whose entry is given by law, and then in a mild and peaceable manner; but here was an entry made by the persons indicted, without any due process in law and in a violent manner.

Secondly. If three or more do meet together, to do an unlawful act against the peace, or to do an unlawful thing in an unlawful manner, and being met do goe forward in a turbulent manner to effect what they met for and at last doe finish their work, this is a riotous act.

But the persons here indicted, did meet together June 20th 1671. on purpose to pull down Richard Michells fence, and being met, did goe forward and did throw it down to the ground, and layed the land open, with intent it should soe remain as it appears to this day; therefore we say, that these delinquents thus meeting, proceeding and acting in an illegal manner to doe an unlawful thing is a very great breach of the Kings peace and by law adjudged to be a riott.

EVIDENCES.

The evidence of George Pack of Elizabethtown in and about the business of Richard Michell fence and housing being thrown down by several persons, and also the evidence of Richard Michell taken Feb. 1, 1671, and by them Sworn in this court as followeth:

That the last Summer, he having agreed with Richard Michell upon terms about the planting a peice of land of his, for a crop of tobacco, which land was fenced in for a crop and, that a meeting for our Syde was at Goodman Carters, where they warned me not to pitch any plow in it, whereby I was disappointed of my cropp. and William Letts upon the same account, for I had lett him one half of the same piece of ground for to pitch a crop of tobacco, wherein we were both disappointed. Upon that it rested till the town meeting when it was concluded that Richard Michell should not have this land, because he never asked the towne for it, as they said, and concluded to take this piece of land from him again, because it was not a full vote of the towne, that he the said Richard Michell had it. The next morning after the said town meeting, the said Richard Michell came to my house, and I went with him up to the said lott, and going up, came to William Letts his house and lighted our pypes, and when we had lighted our pypes, people came upon the said ground, Goodman Meaker, the young John Ogden, Jeffery Jones, and Nicholas Carter, and we coming down to them at the corner of the said lott, the said Richard Michell forewarned them of pulling down the said fence and spake to them of a riott, upon that Goodman Meaker, put to it and began to pluck down the fence, and then all the rest did the like, and left not off till they had plucked down one side and one end, and more he at present saith not.

WILLIAM LETTS testifieth and saith.

That at the same time when Richard Michell and George Pack came to my house and lighted their pipes, I followed them down to Richard Michells lott, and when I came down following the said Richard Michell and George Pack, Goodman Meaker of this towne and his sonn and John Ogden the younger and the old Mash of this towne and Jeffery Jones and Luke Watson and one of Goodman Tompson's sonnes went and pluckt Richard Michells fence down, and more at present saith not concerning these persons. And awile after, being at my own house, there came in Robert Moss and Mr Crayne of this towne, who asked for drink and I having none they went away presently, and presently after they were gone, I heard a noyse and looked out and saw the said Robert Moss and Mr Crayne beating down the Claboards of Richard Michells house, and plucked up the pallasades of the garden, and before I came, the hoggs, within an hours tyme had rooted up and Spoiled all that was in the garden, which was full of necessary garden herbs.

VINCENT RUNYON testifieth and saith.

That in June last he saw several persons of the towne viz. Goodman Meaker of this towne and his eldest sonn and one of Mr Tompsons sonns Mr Ogdens sonn John and Jeffery Jones & Goodman Carter and Luke Wattson and the old Mash upon Richard Michells lot pulling down the fence, and while they were so doing Mr Pardon Came in, then they asked him whether he were come to help pull down the fence. And Mr Pardon answered that he did not come to help pull down the fence, but to take notice what you do. Then said John Ogden, we do not cair if a hundred such fellows as you are, do take notice of what we do. And Mr Pardon answered you speak very sausily, and that Luke Watson, did not put his hand as I saw, to, pull down the fence, but said if I am in place its as good, but after

1. John Berry is first named in connection with New Jersey, in 1669, as possessing an interest in lands between the Passaic and the Hackensack. He is presumed to have come to the Province from Connecticut, and probably some years previously, or he would not so soon have been taken into the Council. In 1679 he was left Deputy Governor, when Governor Carteret went to England. His authority was confirmed by the King, but Baker, Ogden and others, having always been opposed to the Proprietary Government, they were pleased to be able to thwart his influence with the Dutch. He continued to be one of the Council under the different administrations, until 1692, when, it is presumed, he died. Ed.

PRESENT Governor Anthony Colve,

Secretary Nicolaes Bayard, as assumed Councillor,

7th July 1674

Read and considered the petition of William Meaker and Thomas Thompson, residents of Elizabethtown, at Aghter Coll, complaining that Samuel Moor did, contrary to the order of the deputed Councillors of Aghter Coll, refuse to deliver up the bail bond executed by the Petitioners on 26th June, 1673, to Captⁿ John Berry, then Deputy Governor, to appear before the next Bench and there to answer the complaint of Thomas Pardon, &c, requesting, further, that said Moor may be commanded to comply with the order of the deputed Councillors, by delivering up said bond,

*Proceedings of Court in Relation to Differences Between

According to Special Commission from his Honour, the Governour, the Court was holden [at] Elizabeth Towne, the 23rd Day, of June 1674. The said Court Received and Heard the Com[plaint] of the Inhabitants of Piscataway by there Agents in a Declaration by them Exhibited which Decla[ration] Being against some particular persons of Woodbridge and not against the Towne in Generall the [said] Persons refused to Joyne Issue in the case, as by an exception by the said persons produced (now

[by the] hands of the President, Mr. John Lawrance) before me thereunto had Doth more at large app[ear], which said Exception did Interdict and stop the Courts further Course of Process, There Commission [be]ing Expresse to heare and Determine a Difference between Twoe Townes viz: Piscataway and Woodbr[idg]e notwithstanding The Court spent much time in Hearing both Plaintiffs and Defendants There an[svers] and affirmat[i]ons Touching the said Case, by all which the Court is made sensible That the Inhabitants [of] Woodbridge are Possessed of a considerable Part of meadowe which the People of Piscataway did formerly pur[chase] of and from one Daniell Peirce and was bounded out to them by him w^{ch} said bounds was approved [by] Phillip Carteret, then Governour and by his order was Recorded, moreover some of the Woodbridge men w[ere] prosecuted against by the plaintiffs, have acknowledged before the Court that they judge the Plaintiffs have sustayned wronge, and that they have right to a Third part of a Certaine Purchase of Land made by the said Peirce from the sd Governour and John Ogden and Luke Watson which Third Part of Land (if could be obtayned) the Court doth strongly conjecture would satisfie the Piscataway men.

Petition from the Inhabitants of Towns in New Jersey, for Confirmation of their Privileges.

[From "N. Y. Col. MSS.," Secretary's Office, Albany, Vol. XXIII., p. 367.]

To the Honourable Governour Generall of New Netherlands and his Counsell at New Orange.

May your Honour please, the Lords Commanders and Counsell of Warr Agist in answer to a petition presented to them by the people and Inhabit-them why & from whence they came, and C. Sandford with his sword drawn came to the landing place and demanded if they were friends, to the w^m C Collyer replying "yes" hee did have them to leave that but let them come ashore. The boate came back but they stay'd all night.

Wednesday the 7th

The same boate was sent over to the pointe about six of the Clock in the morning to bring the messengers aboard who were come downe.

Att their arrival, they gave acct of their recep^t & of C. Carteretts answer That if the Go: and his Retinnee should come to him as friends hee should be welcome.

About an hour after the Go: & Comp^y went in his pinnace & Coll Morriss boate up the Creeke There was at the pointe Capt Greenland with part of a Company without Colours, saluted the Go: who were relieved by another party from the town just as we went up the creeke.

The Go: &c went ashore a little below Mr. Hopkins' house & walkt to C Carteretts on the hill. As all crost the hollow just by the house there was part of a Company with C. Whitehead at their head, who making a passage for us wee walked through to where wee mett C Carterett Capt C Sandford, C Pike & Capt Bowers. C Carterett inviting the Go: in the stockades, another party opened for to receive the Go: which was commanded by C Sandford who gave a volley just as wee passed through them.

A while afterward being gone in S^r Edmund Andros acquainted C Carterett & the rest with the occasion of his coming to undeceive the people and to shew his pretensions on his Royal Highnesse behalfe to the Govern^r! Thereupon commanded mee to read the K^s patent to himselfe &c to receive the place & country from the Dutch, which was done. Together with Go: Colvies orders under his hand & seale to all offic^{rs} to surrender unto the Go: & one particularly to Mr Ogden then schefif for the surrender of N. Jersey.

The K^s patent to his R H^s was likewise began to be read, but the people crowded in to heare it being debarred by C Sandford's Command to the Marshall to keepe them out which he did somewhat churlishly, S^r Edmund being unsatisfied therewith & not willing to trouble C Carteretts house, hee ordered mee to follow him out of doores, there to read it in the open field without the stockades that all his Maj^{ties} subjects there present might heare the same, which was done accordingly, as also the Dukes' Commission to the Go: & the King's order and under the signet, to resurrender all back to his R H^s order &c

Whereupon C Carterett desiring S^r Edm. to goe into the house againe where he would produce all his rights to the Govern^r. He shewed the lease & release from his R H^s to S^r George Carterett w^{ch} was read by C Berry & pleaded to by him & Capt Sandford C Carterett in the middle, betweene them & C Bowers thereby who read one of the letters with the signet from his Ma^{tie} to C Carterett, there being also another to C Berry as dep: Go: & 2 others the one from his R H^s to Coll. Nicolls, another to Coll Lovelace relating his conveyance to S^r Geo: & order of assistance to his Go: or Dep: There was also a copie of another Letter part from the proprie^{ties} to Capt Nicolls promising to confirme his grants.

S^r Edm Andros insisted upon his Maj^{ties} L^{res} Patents being of greater force than the K^s private L^{res} & the Conveyance by lease & release to vary Command with other material arguments. That which they at last centred upon was that S^r Geo was the D^s assignee & by vertue thereof had as ample p[ower] of Govern^{ment} as the D. himselfe, & both C Carterett, Berry, Sandford & Bowers declared they would to their uttermost hold & defend their Go: m^t until the K^s pleasure were known thereby who could only be judge in the case with his Councell betweene his R H & Sir Geo Carterett.

C Berry talked of Appealeing unto Engl^{and} w^{ch} hee said they had sett about already but being minded by S^r Edm cholas, Nathaniel, John, Kezie and Mary. He died in 1731.

NIELD, JOHN, migrated from Cheshire, England, and settled in Aston township as early as 1686. It is not certainly known that he was married at the time of his arrival, but if so, his wife must have died prior to 1695, for he was in that year married to Mary the widow of John Dutton. This lady being in membership with Friends, and John not being "in possession of the truth," she was brought into some trouble by the marriage, but it does not appear that she was "disowned." John was living in Aston in 1722. See Abraham Darlington.

NOBLE, RICHARD, emigrated to America in 1675, with John Fenwick the founder of Salem, in the ship Griffith from London. In 1677, he was a taxable in Upland district, and on the 15th of December, 1679, he was appointed Surveyor of Upland County, by Sir Edmund Andros. At the first Court held under the Provincial Government, his name occurs as a juror. Though a Quaker, he did not take an active part in meeting affairs, nor did his residence long continue within our limits.

NORBERTY, THOMAS, one of the very earliest settlers of Newtown, was married to Frances Hugh, widow, early in 1685. She was doubtless the widow of Stephen Hugh of Springfield, who died in February, 1684. He was a Friend, but was not so fortunate in business as was usual with members of that Society. Their children were Jacob, Deborah, Thomas, John, Philip, Mary, Hannah and Sarah.

NOSSITER, THOMAS, took up land and settled in Ridley in 1678. Though not a Quaker, he probably came to the Delaware in one of the early emigrant ships to West Jersey. He was a juror at the second Court under the Proprietary Government.

OBERN, HENRY. As early as 1684, Administrators were appointed by the Chester Court, to administer the estate of William Obern, who had then recently died intestate. It is believed that the subject of this notice was a son of William, and emigrated from England with his father, being at that time quite young. Henry resided in Concord, was a member of Concord Monthly Meeting of Friends, and in 1698, was married to Hannah Cook a member of the same Meeting. He appears to have been a man of energy and influence, and in 1717 was a representative from Chester County in the Provincial Assembly. Their children were Mary, Sarah, Elizabeth, William, Hannah, Susanna and Ann. He was living in 1735.

OGDEN, DAVID, came to this country in company with the Proprietary on board of the ship "Welcome" in 1682. He was in membership with Friends, and brought with him to Philadelphia, where he first settled, a certificate from London, dated the 26th of the 11th mo. 1681-2, and signed by several Friends of that city. In 1685, he obtained a certificate from the Meeting at Philadelphia, in relation to his clearness from marriage engagements, when it is probable he removed within the limits of Delaware County. Early in 1686, he married Martha, the daughter of John Houlston, at which time he resided in Chester township, but it is supposed he went to reside on a tract of land in Middletown township shortly afterwards, where he continued to reside till the time of his decease in 1705. His children were Jonathan, Martha, Sarah, Nehemiah, Samuel, John, Aaron, Hannah and Stephen; the last born after the death of his father.

ORIAN, WILLIAM, resided in or near Marcus Hook as early as 1676, and held the office of Constable. In 1680, he had removed to Calken Hook, and that year served as a juror under the old Upland Court. His name is Swedish, and as it suddenly disappears from all records, may have suffered a corruption that renders its identity with any existing Swedish name doubtful.

ORMES, RICHARD, there are strong reasons for believing, came from Frodsham, in Cheshire, England, to Pennsylvania, and at first settled in the embryo City of Philadelphia, where he followed the business of shoemaking. In 1686, he married Mary Tydder, an living in peace and quiet possession of their lands under a patent already given by the Governor of the Colony of New York, and that another patent was superfluous. However, to keep the peace, and prevent trouble and litigation, they sent their committee as before stated to obtain their patent. It is not easy to discover any good reason why Gov. Douglass should issue such an order to these towns at that late day, unless to make a show of his official authority.

As to the locality of the settlement, the mass of evidence goes to show it was for the first few years in the village alone. I concur with the opinion of Mr. Wm. S. Pelletreau, who says on this point; notwithstanding the common impression upon the subject, that settlements were begun simultaneously at North Sea, Sagabonack and Southampton, it is certain such was not the case; nor is it at all probable that in the beginning of the settlement and at a time when there were but few families, and these in constant fear of the Indians, they would venture to scatter their numbers so widely. The first permanent one, after the one at Southampton, was at North Sea in 1647, when John Ogden received permission from the town to settle there with six families, who were to have 321 acres of land, and were to form a community by themselves upon certain conditions agreed upon. No settlement appears to have been made at Sagabonack till some time after this; when various persons owning land there began to build. In 1670, there was quite a settlement upon the east side of Sagabonack pond, (whence the present village of Sagabonack derives its name,) and along the shores of Mecox Bay.

However, it would appear from the following order that North Sea was not settled till 1649.

“Feb. 21, 1649. It is granted by the Major parte of this towne that Mr. Ogden and his company shall have Cow Neck and Jeffery Neck for there owne proper rights ; also, that they shall have for their planting lands within or without ye said necks three hundred 24 acres of said land provided they sufficiently fence it and upon the same grant they are to have all the meadow betwixt the brook by the Sachem Stoake and Hogneck Spring for there proper Right provided it bee not above A mile from ye side, the North Sea : under these conditions following ; first, that the must pay, to all Common Rates with the towne after ye rate of nine hundred pounds according to the takeings up of those men that dwell in the towne. 2ly that Hee shall place there six families or more that shall there Live and have there abode. 3ly that in case the whole bounds of the towne come to bee stunted for Cartill, then the must be stinted for summer-feed as they are that live at ye towne by ye Same Rule in Common Rates as aforesaid is alsoe included the misters means.”

In 1679, Meacox is spoken of as "lately layed" out to the inhabitants, and in 1680, Hogneck to be soon divided.

The names of the eight original "undertakers" are as follows: Edward Howell, Edmond Farrington, Edmund Needham, Thomas Sayre, Josiah Stanborough, George Welbe, Henry Walton, Job Sayre, and, if we include the Captain of the Vessel, Daniel How, making nine. To these were added eleven

MICHIANA POINT OF VIEW

Notre Dame has a duty to uphold church teachings

By SUSAN BIDDLE SHEARER

For those of us who treasure the University of Notre Dame and the Catholic truth the university has sought to exemplify since its founding, recent events have challenged the foundations of that affection.

Furthermore, we cannot help but ask, "To what extent does tolerance mean abdication of our responsibility to uphold church teachings?" We have been silenced by the intellectualizing shallow charges that questioning the appropriateness of showcasing a Queer Film Festival at Notre Dame meant that we were homophobic. We have additionally endured the undoubtedly vulgar assault on young women's modesty aptly titled "The Vagina Monologues," the objective of which is to contradict virtually every aspect of the church's teachings regarding the sanctity of women and the beauty of sex as an expression love and commitment.

Cleverly disguised across campuses nationwide within the context of protesting violence against women, "The Monologues" attempts to numb young people's consciences by deliberately eradicating any sense of propriety and modesty. Thus desensitized, one redefines moral truth. All behavior, which is physically gratifying in the short term and soul killing in the long term, becomes acceptable. Reduced to the level of animals that simply mate or self-gratify, God's context for the gift of human sexuality becomes irrelevant.

One cannot improve upon Bishop John D'Arcy's beautifully crafted and theologically flawless statements regarding Notre Dame's decision to host the Queer Film Festival, "The Vagina Monologues" and the panel discussion which accompanied the latter. One can, however, point out other aspects of these decisions which warrant introspection regardless of whether one supports or does not support the university's decisions to disregard the church's teachings in these matters.

First, in an interview given in USA Today in 2003, "The Vagina Monologues" author Eve Ensler announced that she and her cadre would begin targeting primarily religious institutions in order to showcase "The Monologues" and its accompanying discussion groups and panels. People of reason ought well ask what agenda might be behind her decision to do so. With no shortage of secular institutions available to showcase her dubious talents, why the focus — indeed insistence — upon inclusion within religiously-oriented schools which, by their very nature, will thus have their theological perspectives degraded?

Second, we ought well ask of the institutions which have chosen to host "The Monologues," who, specifically, made the decision regarding the appropriateness of this performance? The recent coverage of the Queer Film Festival indicated that its organizers had full administrative backing. Indeed.

As a graduate of Notre Dame and the parent of two potential Notre Dame students, I wonder if this particular ship has a navigational and, if so, in which particular direction is the heading the vessel?

Third, universities have missions, and those of us who are privileged to work within higher education have both a moral and contractual obligation to conform to the tenets of those missions. Let us examine some of the elements of the Notre Dame's mission in its own words:

"The University encourages a way of living consonant with Christian community and manifest in prayer, liturgy, and service ... Notre Dame's character as a Catholic academic community presupposes that no genuine search for truth ... is alien to the life of faith ... There is, however, a special obligation and opportunity, specifically as a Catholic university, to pursue the religious dimensions of all human learning."

In addition, in its closing synopsis regarding its mission, the university states:

"In all dimensions of the university, Notre Dame pursues its objectives through the formation of an authentic human community graced by the Spirit of Christ."

There is nothing about either of these recent events — the Queer Film Festival or "The Vagina Monologues" — which exemplifies either the spirit or letter of that mission. One then asks, why were they allowed on the campus, much less purportedly welcomed by the administration?

Fourth, in the case of Notre Dame and the departments of English, theater, and gender studies, the deliberate defiance of the university's mission via the lack of respect shown to it necessitates a thorough appraisal of what, exactly, comprises academic freedom on that campus. Both the students who are entrusted to the university and their parents have a right to expect that the faculty and leadership will strive to embody the university's stated mission in all they teach and do.

Last, with regard to the university's leadership and its faculty, how very odd and telling is Notre Dame president Rev. Edward A. Malloy's absence in this critical matter. True leaders do not duck tough decisions, regardless of the backlash which will ensue.

As for the faculty, its perspective regarding the release of a football coach was well documented, as were Malloy's comments regarding this issue. However, in the critical matter of the recent moral hostility shown toward the university and the teachings of the church it is committed to represent, comments are conspicuously absent. The moral depravity and intellectual shallowness of Ensler and her associates is left unchallenged by those with an obligation to protect and embody the truth.

In closing, it is apt that the production organizers gifted Ensler with a "vaginal football" prior to her leaving the stage. Not content to debase the University of Our Lady with mere denigration of church teaching, the "in-your-face" inclusion of one of its most treasured traditions within this travesty speaks volumes about the intent of its organizers.

All responsible for these events owe those who have walked before them, walk with them now, and will walk after them on our beautiful campus their deepest apologies for the infliction of violence upon our minds, hearts, souls and religious and moral sensibilities.

Pair wanted to settle fight 'like men'

■ Suspect allegedly said street fight was culmination of long, heated argument.

By PATRICK M. O'CONNELL
Tribune Staff Writer

The Monday night street fight that left one man dead was the culmination of an hours-long verbal argument at a nearby house.

Charles E. Jackson allegedly told investigators he and victim Dick E. Priebe Jr. decided to go outside and "settle it like men," court documents show.

Once in the street, Jackson allegedly struck Priebe, knocking him to the ground. Jackson continued to punch Priebe, then sat on his chest and, witnesses said, allegedly continually beat him for five to six minutes.

Priebe died minutes later at the hospital. Jackson then returned to the Deeper mercury emissions cuts sought

■ Environmentalists criticize EPA order on coal-burning plants.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — State environmentalists said deep government-ordered cuts on mercury emissions at coal-burning power plants do not go far enough.

The plan announced Tuesday by the Environmental Protection Agency would try to reduce mercury emissions by nearly half by 2020.

That is far more lenient than the 90 percent reduction by 2008 that the Hoosier Environmental Council last year asked the state to require of utilities.

Forty percent of mercury emissions come from power plants, but those emissions have never been regulated as a pollutant. Mercury can cause brain and kidney damage and stunt central nervous system development. It is especially harmful to developing fetuses. "It is so wrong what they did today," John Blair, president of Evansville-based Valley Watch, told The Indianapolis Star for a Wednesday story. "It's horrible to impose another 15 years of this on the people of southwestern Indiana."

"Our kids are being dumbed down as a result of mercury pollution, and it's not right." Coal-fired power plants provide more than 90 percent of Indiana's electricity, and U.S. Geological Survey data found the amount of mercury that falls in the state is 25 percent higher than the national average.

Indiana ranks second in the nation in the number of warnings against eating fish caught in state waterways because of mercury contamination.

A task force led by the Indiana Department of Environmental Management studying the feasibility of HEC's proposed 90 percent reduction, but industry representatives call that goal unrealistic and say the technology to accomplish that does not yet exist.

"If we can get a man to the moon, I'm sure we can get 90 percent over time, just not now," said Dwayne Burke of Indianapolis Power & Light Co.

"We always support a phased-in approach where we can make reliable and economical environmental considerations over time."

Chicago Becomes a City

o rapid and so vigorous was the growth of the Town of Chicago, so indomitable the spirit and so high the ambitions of its people, that only four years after its incorporation as a town it applied for and received a charter as a city. The charter was granted by the state legislature on March 4, 1837, the very day that Martin Van Buren took the oath of office at Washington and was inaugurated president of the United States.

When the Town of Chicago was incorporated in 1833, the population was estimated at 150, or per-

With the growth of Chicago far outstripping the machinery by which public affairs were managed, there was an increasing demand for courts to give prompt and equitable consideration of disputes. The legislature had, on Feb. 4, 1837, created a new haps a few more. A census, taken by the city a few months after the charter of the city was taken out, showed a population of 4,170. The males numbered 2,570, the females 1,600. There were 77 negroes. Dwellings numbered 398, churches 5, liquor dispensaries 26, taverns 10, groceries 19, law offices 17, and drug stores 3.

As soon as the legislature had granted the charter, the town council divided the town into six wards and called an election for May 2, 1837, to choose the first city officials. William B. Ogden was elected the first mayor of the City of Chicago, and these aldermen: J. C. Goodhue, Francis C. Sherman, John S. C. Hogan, Peter Bolles, J. D. Caton, A. Pierce, Francis H. Taylor, B. Ward, S. Thomas Hoyne as "a poor lawyer and an industrious office-seeker." There were already 700 cases on his docket when he first opened court in Chicago, and progress was very slow.

Under the charter of the City of Chicago two new courts were created in the city—the Mayor's Court, over which the mayor presided with the powers of a justice of the peace; and the Municipal Court, with jurisdiction concurrent with that of the Circuit Court in all cases in which either party to the cause was a resident of Chicago.
